

CONTENTS

Preface	15
Part One Between Literature and Ethics
Chapter 1: Literature as a Moral Laboratory	21
Between Literature and the Moral Life 23; Between Literature and Moral Theory 29; Reading Life 32
Chapter 2: The Resurrection of Ethical Criticism	33
Ethical Criticism – What are we Afraid of? 33; The Birth of Ethical Criticism 36; Where Can we Find the Moral or the Ethical – in the Reader or in the Fiction? 39; The Ethics of Fiction 41; The Ethics of Reading 45; The Ethics of Fiction and the Ethics of Reading – Contrast or Complement? 49
Chapter 3: Moral/Ethical Criticism – Interpretative Method	51
The Journey to the Moral Begins with the Aesthetic 51; The Aesthetic Layer 54; The Terrible Act 55; Multiple Narra- tives 57; The Dissonance 61; The Ethical Layer in Fiction – Explicit or Implicit 64; The Kantian-Deontological Perspec- tive 67; The Aristotelian Virtue Ethics Perspective 70; Between Kantian and Aristotelian Perspectives 72; Realiz- ing the Ethical Layer in Fiction 74; The Ethical Layer in Reading 77; Conclusion 85

Part Two
War Stories

Prologue	89
Chapter 4: The End of the Age of Innocence Era – Yizhar’s “The Story of Hirbet Hiz’ah”	93
Distance Mechanisms 95; The Terrible Act – Between the Command and its Realization 100; From Distance to Close- ness – The Place of the Narrator Opposite the Other 102; The Moral Failure – From the Concrete to the General 107; From the Known to the Other – The Call for Responsibility 109
Chapter 5: The Refugees’ Pain – Brenner’s “The Way Out”	111
Between the Refugees and the Native Settlers 112; The Obligation to Help the Other 114; The Terrible Act 115; “The Way Out” – Contemporary Meaning 118; Conclusion: Calling for Responsibility 127
Chapter 6: “A Flower in this Iceberg” – Kaniuk’s Himmo King of Jerusalem	129
Euthanasia 130; Dissonances and the Moral Problem 132; The Terrible Act 141; Conclusion – Between Decision and Responsibility 145

Part Three
Life Stories

Prologue	149
Chapter 7: Toward Power – Shamir’s A King of Flesh and Blood and The Pauper’s Sheep	153
Between a Man of Words and a Man of Deeds 154; The Victim’s Poetry 164; Who is the King? 172; Epilog – Between David and David or The Question of Responsibility in Reading 174

Chapter 8: Tragedy, Moral Luck and Forlornness – Agnon’s “Tehila” and Only Yesterday	177
Tehila’s Tragedy 177; Between Infinite Responsibility and Egocentricity 186; The Binding of Isaac 187; The Picaresque Narrative and the Dramatic-Tragic Narrative 188; Life in Jaffa and Life in Jerusalem 189; The Financial Fulfillment and the Erotic Fulfillment (The Minor Sins) 190; Crime and Punishment 195; Conclusion – Between the Shreds 201
Chapter 9: The Non-Realistic Alternative – Kaniuk’s The Last Jew and Grossman’s See Under ‘Love’	203
The Anatomy and the Fantastic 206; Moral Life versus Good Life 208; Between Denial and Struggle?; Responsibility and Art 214
Part Four Confrontation and Otherness
Prologue	219
Chapter 10: “Bring Back the Partnership” – Yehoshua’s Journey to the End of the Millennium	223
Between South and North 225; Between the Aristotelian and the Kantian 230; Between Juristic Verdict and Narrative Verdict 236; The Ethical Otherness 237
Epilogue	241
Bibliography	243
Literary Works 243; Philosophy, Criticism and Theory 244
Indices	263
Terms 263; Names 269	