

CONTENTS

Preface	7
Introduction: The Theme “Abraham in the Furnace”	9
A. “Abraham in the Furnace”: The story and its researchers	9
B. Thematology as a method for studying Jewish literary themes	11
Chapter 1: Definition of the Theme	19
A. List of versions	20
B. Defining the constant and the non-constant elements of the plot	27
1. The constant element as a tool for distinguishing motifemes	29
2. The constant element as a tool for delimiting the theme	33
3. The constant element as a tool for labeling the theme	37
Chapter 2: Development of the Theme	39
A. The ancient antecedents of the Jewish theme	39
B. Description of the versions	42
C. Meaning and context	71
Chapter 3: The Motifeme as a Hermeneutic Unit	76
A. Nature and the universe	77
1. The star vision	77
2. The cave	82
3. The sun and the moon	87
4. The fire	91
5. Changing the world order	98
B. The family relationship	101
1. The father and son conflict	101
2. The conflict between the brothers	108
3. The struggle for power and control within the family	111

C. The birth of a new religion	112
1. Bereshit Rabba	113
2. Man. Oxford Bodelian Or. 135	114
3. Midrash ha-Gadol	116
4. Values that intersect with theological concepts	119
D. Conclusion: Construction of a Jewish myth	120
Chapter 4: The Theme in Twentieth-Century Hebrew Literature	123
A. Yaakov Cahan	124
B. David Shimoni	128
C. Meir Wieseltier	132
D. Aharon Megged	134
E. Conclusion: A modern rebellion recreating an ancient myth	141
Epilogue: From the Midrash to the Twentieth Century and Back	143
Appendixes	149
Appendix 1: Table of Motifemes in the Different Versions	149
Appendix 2: Categorization of the Versions	152
Appendix 3: Texts	157
Bereshit Rabba	157
Babylonian Talmud: Pesahim	158
Pirke de-Rabbi Eliezer	158
Seder Eliyahu Rabba	158
Midrash Aggadah al ha-Torah	159
Mishneh Torah	160
Man. Oxford Bodelian Or. 135	162
Beur al ha-Torah	163
Midrash ha-Gadol	165
Man. London Beth Hamidrash 28	165
Shevet Musar	168
Bibliography	175
General Index	191

