

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	7
Introduction	9
Chapter One: Two Foundational Stories	17
1. The Bavli as a Unique Canon 17; 2. The Heavenly Pluralism of ‘Eruvin 13b 20; 3. This-wordly Pluralism in Bava Metzi‘a 59b 32; 4. The End of Yavneh and the Birth of the Bavli 45
Chapter Two: Facing God	55
1. Introduction 55; 2. Abraham’s “Religiosity” 56; 3. “Whoever suppresses his prophecy” (mSanh 11.5) 78; 4. Should God’s Judgment Always be Justified? 87; 5. Biblical Echoes – The Dispute about Religiosity in Genesis 99
Chapter Three: Facing Scripture	112
1. The Text and its Readings 112; 2. Facing the Written Torah 118
Chapter Four: Facing Halakhic Tradition	141
1. Traditionalists and Anti-Traditionalists 141; 2. The Bavli’s Dialogical Challenge 154; 3. Three Complementary Solutions 171; 4. The View from Outside 186
Chapter Five: Facing the Institutions of Halakha	198
1. Right and Left 198; 2. “If the court ruled and one of its members knew they had erred” 205; 3. Forced Interpretations 216; 4. The Problem of the Rebellious Elder 221; 5. Checks and Balances 225; 6. The Dialectic of Confrontational Authority 231

Chapter Six: Hannah as Paradigm	234
1. Introduction 234; 2. “One may not stand in prayer except with a serious mind” 236; 3. Hannah’s Prayer – The Opposing Voice 240; 4. “I prayed for this child!” – The Broad Confrontational Context of R. Elazar’s Sermons 249
Bibliography	257
Index	265