

Contents

Preface	13
Introduction	15

Part I: The Essence of Conversion

1. The Fundamentals of Conversion and Their Interrelationships	23
1. The Formal Conversion Rituals, Acceptance of the Commandments, and the Court	23
2. Gemirat Da'at — The Final Internal Resolve to Convert	31
3. Conversion as a Covenant and as Kinyan	42
2. The Principal Component of Conversion	48
1. Acceptance of the Commandments as the Principal Component of Conversion	48
2. Acceptance of the Commandments and the Court	56
3. The Views of the Acharonim	60
3. The Formal Ritual Acts of Conversion and Ritual Purity and Impurity	65
1. Introduction	65
2. The Male Convert's Circumcision	67
3. The Convert's Ritual Immersion	72
4. The Proselyte's Immersion and the Ritual Immersion of Food Vessels	78
5. Immersion Prior to Circumcision	84
4. The Ger Toshav	89
1. The Ger Toshav (Resident Alien): Conversion and Acceptance of the Commandments	89
2. The Status of the Ger Toshav	95

3. The Ger Toshav and the Ger Tzedek	102
5. The Canaanite Slave	108
1. The Canaanite Slave: Servitude and Conversion	108
2. The Status of the Canaanite Slave	116
3. Monetary Acquisition and Conversion	119
4. The Acceptance of Commandments of a Canaanite Slave	123
5. Immersion for Slavery and Acceptance of the Commandments	131
6. Ritual Immersion for the Sake of Emancipation without Acceptance of the Commandments	140
7. The Yefat To'ar and Her Conversion	148

Part II: Acceptance of the Commandments

Introduction to Part Two	161
1. Towards a Characterization of the Acceptance of the Commandments	163
1. The Acceptance of the Commandments as a Condition for Conversion	163
2. Acceptance of the Commandments and the Desire to Convert	168
2. Informing about the Commandments and Accepting the Commandments	173
1. Informing about the Commandments	173
2. Informing the Proselyte of the Commandments — The Law Ex Post Facto	180
3. Knowledge of the Commandments and Their Acceptance — In Specific Detail and in General	182
4. Informing about the Commandments and Accepting the Commandments According to Maimonides and in the Shulhan Arukh	185
3. Partial Acceptance of the Commandments	189
1. The Halakhah of “[I Accept the Commandments,] Except for One Thing”	189
2. A Restrictive Interpretation of “Except for One Thing”	193

3. “Except for One Thing” — Ab Initio and Ex Post Facto	199
4. The View of R. Haim Ozer Grodzinski	203
5. The Rulings of R. Moses Feinstein	212
4. The Motive for Conversion and Acceptance of the Commandments	221
1. The Dispute between Tannaim Concerning an Ulterior Motive for Conversion	221
2. One Whose Status as a Convert is in Doubt and Conversion for the Purpose of Marriage	226
3. Maimonides’ Approach Concerning an Ulterior Motive for Conversion	232
4. The Motive for Conversion and the Sages’ Attitude to Conversion and to Converts	238
5. Conversion for the Purpose of Marriage in Recent Generations	248
6. The Prohibition of Marriage for One Suspected of Relations with a Gentile Woman	251
7. Civil Marriage and Conversion for the Sake of a Jewish Marriage	259
5. The Conversion of a Minor	264
1. The Minor Convert and Zechiya	264
2. The Status of the Minor Convert and His Protest	278
3. The Conversion of Minors in the Contemporary Period	283

Part III: The Act of Conversion

Introduction to Part Three	297
1. The Laws of Circumcision and Ritual Immersion	298
1. The Indispensability of Circumcision and Ritual Immersion for Conversion	298
2. Conversion by Ritual Immersion	301
3. Intent in Immersion and Circumcision	312
2. Hatafat Dam Brit — The Drawing of the Blood of the Covenant	319
1. Hatafat Dam Brit for a Previously Circumcised Conversion Candidate	319

2. A Gentile Who Was Born Circumcised Who Comes to Convert	327
3. Hatafat Dam Brit for the Levites, the Sons of Keturah, and Emancipated Slaves	330
3. There is No Half-Conversion	334
1. Introduction: The Significance of a Single Act of Conversion	334
2. One Who Immersed but Was Not Circumcised, or Who Was Circumcised but Did Not Immerse, Is Not a Convert	339
3. Hatafat Dam Brit as an Act of Conversion	344
4. A Proselyte Who Was Circumcised but Did Not Immerse	353
5. A Proselyte Who Immersed but Was Not Circumcised	364
4. Partial Conversion: A Historical Examination	368
1. The Conversion of the Royal House of Adiabene	368
2. A Comparison with the Talmudic Legal Tradition	370
3. The Phenomenon of “Those Who Fear Heaven” and Gentile Interest in Judaism in and after the Late Second Temple Period	375
5. The Offering of a Sacrifice	381
1. The Purpose of the Proselyte’s Sacrifice	381
2. Bringing the Sacrifice as Completion of the Formal Ritual Act of Conversion	385
3. After the Destruction of the Temple	392

Part IV: The Court

Introduction to Part Four	399
1. “A Convert Requires Three”	401
1. The Prohibition of Private Conversion in the Talmuds and in the Geonic Literature	401
2. The Indispensability of Three for the Acceptance of the Commandments	412
3. The Approach of Rif and Similar Approaches of Other Rishonim	418

4. The Indispensability of the Court for Immersion and for Acceptance of the Commandments	432
5. Views of Rishonim Who Acknowledge the Legitimacy of Conversion Not in the Presence of a Court Ex Post Facto	442
2. Conversion without a Court: Practical Halakhah in the Responsa Literature	452
1. Law of Converts and Slaves in the Sixteenth Century in the East	452
2. Responsa on Questions of Mamzerut , Kiddushim (Betrothal), and Levirate Marriage	459
3. Responsa by Acharonim	467
3. Conversion and Judicial Proceedings and Rulings	478
1. Conversion in Court and Judicial Proceedings and Rulings	478
2. Judicial Proceedings and the Ritual Immersion for the Sake of Conversion Conducted at Night	482
3. A Judicial Proceeding or “An Action which Requires a Court”? — Maimonides’ Approach	491
4. Immersion for Conversion on the Sabbath	499
5. The Judicial Nature of Conversion in Actual Halakhic Practice	501
4. Accepting Converts at the Present Time: Experts and Non-Experts	508
1. Introduction	508
2. “We Are Acting as Their Agents”	510
3. Conversion by Torah Law and by the Authority of Rabbinic Enactment	521
4. The Exegesis of “Throughout Your Generations”	527
5. Experts and “Law [Mishpat]”	534
6. The Halakhic Expertise and the Sagacity of the Judges	540